REPORT SIGNED BY CONFEREES

All Disputed Points in Payne-Aldrich Bill Settled.

ULTIMATUM FROM PRESIDENT

Chief Executive Sends Letter to Senate and House Leaders Demanding That the High Rates on Gloves and Lumber Should Not Be Made a Part of the Conference Report and the President's Wishes Are Accorded To.

Washington, July 30.—The Payne-Aldrich tariff bill stands completed, an agreement on all disputed points being reached and the conferees' report signed by the Republican conferees. It will now go to the house and be voted on by that body on Saturday. The senate will begin consideration of the measure as agreed to by the conferees on Monday.

Halted by the mandate of President Taft the tariff conferees were compelled to turn back and revise their rates on lumber and gloves. In a communication to Senator Aldrich and Representative Payne the president demanded that the high rates on gloves as fixed by the house and the high rates on lumber as fixed by the senate should not be made a part of the conference report.

After struggling over these questions the conferees surrendered to the president's view and signed the report. The house may be called to meet at 10 o'clock on Saturday, for it is the intention of the leaders that the report shall be pushed through in one legislative day. Probably a week will be required to dispose of the conference report in the senate.

The president had ideas of what the lumber and glove rates should be and he expressed them very forcibly in a letter. He said that lumber should not be more than $1.25 per thousand feet for rough, with the differentials fixed by the senate on finished lumber. He declared also that the senate rates on gloves, which are the same as the Dingley rates and much less than the house rates, would have to be adopted in order to obtain his endorsement.

Hides Must Go On Free List.

Not content with issuing an injunction against high rates on these articles the president specifies that hides must go on the free list and the house rates on boots and shoes and other manufactures of leather be reduced. Hosiery, too, he thought should be reduced below the house rates, which were advanced over the Dingley duties.

There was no opportunity to compromise on gloves. The president said the rates must not be advanced beyond the figures named by the senate, which are the same as the existing duties except for the fact that Schmaschen gloves were reduced by the senate from $1.75 a dozen to $1.25.

Although the house conferees insisted that these rates would endanger the passage of the conference report through the house they nevertheless were adopted.

On lumber some concessions were made, in spite of the fact that the president's instructions were complied with to the letter. Rough lumber was made dutiable at $1.25 per thousand feet, finished on one side, $1.75; finished on two sides or one side planed and tongued and grooved, $2.15; finished on three sides, $2.52½, and finished on four sides, $2.90.

To conciliate Senators Piles and Jones the conferees adopted the senate rate of 50 cents per thousand on shingles instead of the house rate of 30 cents. In order to obtain the support of Senator Heyburn, the industries of whose state had been assailed through the on hides, the reduction in the duty on lumber and the reduction in the differential on pig lead in bars, the latter schedule was reconsidered.

The senate fixed the rate on pig lead at 2½ cents per pound, but this was reduced in conference to 2 cents. In view of the dissatisfaction of the Idaho senators this subject was reopened and a rate of 2½ cents a pound on pig lead in bars was restored.

In view of the action of the conferees in putting hides on the free list a concession was also made to the cattle industry by taking tallow off the free list, where it had been placed by the house, and restored it to the dutiable list.

Tallow had been put on the free list by the house, but the action of the conferees makes it dutiable at 1½ cents per pound.

The rates on hosiery were fixed by increases of about 20 per cent in grades valued at $1, $1.50 and $2 a dozen pairs. This is an increase over existing rates, but a material decrease from the advances made by the houses. On all other values of hosiery the Dingley rates, which had been re-enacted by the senate, were retained. This action, the conferees believe, was in conformity with the spirit of the president's request.

IF GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Murderer of South Dakota Family Willing to Plead Guilty.

Aberdeen, S. D., July 30.—Emil Victor, accused of the murder of the three members of the Christie family and the Ronayne boy July 3 at Rudolph, is willing to plead guilty if he is given a sentence for life in prison. His trial will be commenced before Judge McNulty at a special term of the circuit court which convenes here Saturday. Victor has no attorney and will depend upon the man whom the court appoints to defend him. His father, who came here for one day from East Aurora, N. Y., said he was too poor to hire a lawyer for his son and he returned home, leaving him to his fate.

STORM FURNISHES TEMPORARY RELIEF

Several Deaths From Excessive Heat at Chicago.

Chicago, July 30.—The two days of torrid weather in this city was broken by an electrical storm which brought temporary relief. Several deaths resulted either from the storm or from the great heat. Thousands of dollars' worth of damage was done to buildings in the city. With the passing of the cool wave brought by the storm the ambulances and patrol wagons again hurried through the streets for victims of prostration. A maximum temperature of 92 degrees was reached. The wind reached a velocity of forty-two miles an hour during the storm and it was this that caused the great damage to property. Two men were struck by lightning and instantly killed.

Terrific Storm at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, July 30.—A terrific storm which swept Indianapolis and Indiana caused great damage in this city. The wind played many freakish pranks, among other things, blowing an automobile through a store front and tearing the roof from a baseball grand stand and depositing it with such force upon a house that the building was almost demolished. About forty street cars were tied up by the trees blown across the tracks and telephone and telegraph service was demoralized. Previous to the storm the thermometer reached 91 degrees.

Two Deaths in New York.

New York, July 30.—Another one of those hot, sticky spells struck New York and although the average temperature was only 75 at least two deaths were caused by heat prostrations. The humidity rose rapidly until the temperature reached the maximum for the day, 82.

MOTIVE FOR CRIME UNKNOWN

Woman Shoots Companion and Then Takes Poison.

Cincinnati, July 30.—A double tragedy was enacted in Bellevue, Ky., a suburb of this city, when Mrs. John Mullarkey, twenty-eight years old, shot and killed Edward Axline, thirty years old, and died later as a result of self-administered poison.

Mrs. Mullarkey, who was the wife of a well known resident of the suburb and mother of two children, had been seen frequently in company with Axline in the last few months.

What led to the tragedy may never be known. Revolver shots were heard in the woman's home and neighbors who rushed in found Axline dying from two bullet wounds. Mrs. Mullarkey told them that she did the shooting and that she had taken carbolic acid. She was removed to Speers' hospital, but died soon after reaching that institution.

Killed in Auto Accident.

Chicago, July 30.—Mrs. Parker Winfield Kerr of this city, wife of a salesman for a woolen mills company, was killed in an automobile accident near Libertyville, Ill. W. S. Mills, a tailor, who was driving the machine, was seriously injured. The other occupant of the car, Harvey Hefer, escaped with minor bruises.

THAW'S ORDEAL IS AT AN END

District Attorney Jerome Finishes His Examination.

DEFENDANT HOLDS HIS OWN

Becomes Involved in Heated Encounter

With Jerome but Checks Himself Upon Realizing That He Had Nothing to Gain and Everything to Lose. Jerome Bases Questions Chiefly Upon Mass of Documents.

White Plains, N. Y., July 30.—District Attorney Jerome has finished his inquisition of Harry K. Thaw in the supreme court. This ends perhaps the most surprising chapter of the long court procedure in which the young Pittsburger has figured. It certainly proved the most surprising in this latest phase of the case—Thaw's fight to prove himself sane and obtain his release from the Matteawan asylum.

All told Harry Thaw faced Mr. Jerome's lightning thrusts for ten hours, yet he held his own at all times.

On the whole Thaw and his attorney are well satisfied. Thaw showed even more confidence than he exhibited during his first encounter; in fact, his self-satisfaction at one time almost cost him dear when he ventured into a heated passage at arms with the district attorney. But he checked himself when he realized that he had nothing to gain and everything to lose by a show of temper. Except for this squall the exchange of questions and answers, with here and there an occasional sally of wit, progressed smoothly until adjournment.

Mr. Jerome based his questions chiefly upon various documents, letters and memoranda, which he Produced in Surprising Numbers.

The one he found most useful was a tablet containing twenty-six sheets of foolscap paper on which were pasted a strange variety of newspaper clippings and scraps of manuscript. Thaw identified it as something he had prepared and sent to Delphin M. Delmas, his chief counsel during the first trial, for use in preparing his closing speech to the jury. Some of its contents were strange enough to cause suspicions of the author's sanity, but these bits Thaw invariably explained by saying they were letters written to him and his family by persons whose kind intentions probably were better than their mental balance. "Lots of it was rubbish," he added, "but some of the letters contained ideas I thought Mr. Delmas might use."

Thaw's part of the compilation showed him as a man of many tastes and interests. In it he quoted passages of scripture regarding sins against the young and referred to the dragon tales in Percy's Reliques for similes regarding Stanford White. He culled from his voluminous correspondence the most striking expressions that might be put to the same use.

Delmas' opinion of his client's suggestions was indicated by the fact that he turned the over to the committee of alienists before which the prisoner appeared during his first trial. Mr. Jerome got them from this source.

While Thaw was, of course, the central figure at the hearing there were two other witnesses, Susan Merrill, the former New York lodging house keeper, and Clifford W. Hartridge, Thaw's former attorney. Mrs. Merrill went further into details regarding Thaw's alleged abuse of young women at her house. She admitted having had dealings also with Stanford White.

Hartridge testified to the truth of parts of her story. He said that the money he turned over to the woman, which she said was used to prevent the girls Thaw whipped from making trouble, did not come from Thaw himself. He said that he had received $103,000 from Mrs. William Thaw, but had used a large part of it for "various purposes connected with his employment by the family."

Evelyn Thaw was an auditor in court again, but her husband ignored her presence. She naturally looked at him, but he resolutely refused to look at her. Indications are that the hearing will last at least a week longer.

Havana Sanitary Officer Resigns.

Havana, July 30.—Dr. John Gutierrez, the renowned yellow fever expert, has resigned as chief sanitary officer of Havana. He gives as his reason that his department is so crippled by unwise reductions in expenses that he is compelled to decline further responsibility for holding the fever in check.

CUBAN CABINET RESIGNS

Saves President Embarrassment of Making Removals.

Havana, July 30.—The cabinet crisis which for some time has been impending reached a climax when all the ministers, as well as the presidential secretary, Senor Castellanes, signed their resignations, which will be officially presented to President Gomez.

The action of the cabinet was taken after a conference with the avowed purpose of expressing loyalty to the president and relieving him of the embarrassment of making removals.

REYES QUILTS COLOMBIA

Will Establish Commercial House in Europe.

London, July 30.—General Rafael Reyes has telegraphed to his friends here that he will not return to Colombia.

The general, who underwent at Frankfurt-on-the-Main a slight operation for locomotor ataxia, expects to go to Geneva. He plans to establish a commercial house in Europe with Enrique Cortez, former Colombian minister at Washington and now head of a Colombian banking firm in London.

Michigan Banker Drowned.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 30.—James Doyle, fifty-two years old, a prominent banker and capitalist of this city, was drowned in Klinger lake, St. Joseph county, while swimming. Doyle was at one time president of the American Carriage company of this city and at the time of his death was treasurer of the Recreation Park Racing association.

BRYAN INTENDS TO STAY IN NEBRASKA

Declares He Has No Intention of Moving to Texas.

Chicago, July 30.—William Jennings Bryan arrived here from Bellefontaine, O., and proceeded to Scotch once more the rumor that he is going to leave Nebraska and make his permanent home in Texas.

"I have been annoyed by questions of this sort ever since I bought a little farm in Texas," said Mr. Bryan. "I will make a winter home there, perhaps, but positively I have no intention of leaving Lincoln or Nebraska. I was asked about the subject in Bellefontaine and I said again that I had no intention of leaving my home seat. I think this statement should settle the matter. I am a fixture in Nebraska."

Accidentally Kills Brother.

Duluth, July 30.—The three-year-old son of John Jorsted, a rich farmer living near Walker, was killed by his ten-year-old brother while the latter was playing with a rifle, which he did not know was loaded.

Suspected of Bank Robbery.

Aberdeen, S. D., July 30.—Four men were arrested here suspected of robbing a bank at Tulare last week of $1,900 and the bank at Holmquist, S. D., in May of $2,200.

FALLS INTO WOMAN'S HANDS

Superintendency of Chicago's Great School System.

Chicago, July 30.—The superintendency of Chicago's great school system has fallen into the hands of a woman for the first time in its history. Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, principal of the Chicago normal school since 1905 and an educator of national reputation, was chosen by the newly organized board of education to head the public schools.

Mrs. Young's selection followed a struggle for the office which has been going on since the resignation of Edwin G. Cooley several months ago.

Mrs. Young is sixty-four years old and was born in Buffalo, N. Y. She has been engaged in teaching since 1862.

WELL KNOWN EDITOR DEAD

A. M. Greeley of Big Forks (Minn.) Compass Passes Away.

Big Falls, Minn., July 30.—Editor A. M. Greeley of the Big Forks Compass, author of "Variations of the Needle" and one of the state's most widely copied paragraphs, died at his home here following a week's illness caused by heat prostration last Thursday at Bemidji.

Mr. Greeley has been in poor health for two years. During a circus last Thursday at Bemidji he attended with his wife and children, but was overcome with heat, followed by severe hemorrhages of the lungs.

THE Johnson family occupies 24 pages in the new St. Paul directory. No wonder that the governor removed bag and baggage to that city.

THE governor has named T. D. O'Brien a member of the state supreme court to succeed Judge C. B. Elliott, recently appointed to a position in the Philippines.

THAW is making his last fight for liberty, announces the eastern press. Thaw's "last fight for liberty" is like the passing of some of the celebrated actresses, who do not pass.

TWENTY-FIVE million tons of iron ore have been located on the Scranton mine, near Hibbing. The state which owns the property, will realize from $6,000,000 to $8,000,000 in royalty.

THE business man who does not believe in advertising belongs to the same class as the farmer who does not believe in fertilizing his land, and results will bear out the truth of the statement.

JUDGING from the number of laws that are pronounced unconstitutional one would imagine that the bills are not thoroughly scanned by the gentlemen of legal learning who belong to the legislative body.

AND now comes a North Dakota man who has invented a machine whereby the hog will be made to grind his own corn before he eats it. Ground feed has been found to be more profitable for swine than otherwise, and hereafter it will be "root hog, or die."

MOTHERS, whose five to eight year-old sons have already contracted the cigarette habit, will undoubtedly keep an eye open to see that the law forbidding the sale of the coffin-nails is enforced. In St. Paul an organization of women has been formed for this purpose.

EVERY few days Frank Day tells of some new issue on which he expects to win the state to democracy. Now it is the ship subsidy bill and the tariff, and the entire congressional delegation is to be turned over to the enemy as soon as the democrats get ready to tell the people where their servants stand on the issues.

ANOTHER merger—the Herald has bought the Democrat at Little Falls, and will consolidate the subscription lists, the machinery and type being for sale. In cities of that size the act of absorption is continually going on in the business, the substantial newspapers eventually taking over the ones that are barely making a living.

THE women of the country addicted to peek-a-boo waists are up in arms against Rev. Morrill, of Minneapolis, who recently illustrated a lecture in that city with pictures of living subjects. He is threatened with suits and is receiving all sorts of advice as to what he should do as a minister of the gospel instead of taking snap shots of people and then parading them before the public with unkind comments.

THE real antidote for suicide is something to eat, according to the latest authority. A young lady whose lover had proven false was about to cross the river Styx by her own hand when she received a box of chocolates from a friend. She ate one and things looked brighter, while the second chocolate delayed the suicide act for a week, and by the time the box was gone she forgot she ever had a lover. If you have a friend who is contemplating suicide send a box of chocolates or a beefsteak by special delivery and a cure is guaranteed.

SENATOR SMITH, of Minneapolis, says he is not in the field for the lieutenant governorship, and the public will accept his statement. Immediately following this comes the announcement that Senator Dan Gunn, of Grand Rapids, is the man. While this wholesale announcement of senators for the position would look as though it was the open season for the lieutenant, still the mention of Senator Gunn in this section will strike a responsive chord. He is one of the men who is always looking to build up northern Minnesota.

THE grand stand appropriation for the state fair and the waterpower survey appropriation are constitutional according to the attorney general, while the appropriation for roads and bridges, the Bagley-Park Rapids state road, drainage fund in aid of county ditches and the Whetstone river canal and Big Stone lake dam appropriations are held invalid. The appropriations that have been held up are the ones that would have aided in building up the country, especially in northern Minnesota, in the matter of drainage and good roads.

THE COMING RELIGION

Dr. Eliot Says Neither Creed Nor Dogma Will Bind It.

PREVENTION ITS WATCHWORD

Cornerstone of New Belief, Says Harvard's President Emeritus, Will Be Love of God and Service to Fellow Men—Skillful Surgeon to Be One of Its Ministers.

Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard university, outlined in an address before the Harvard Summer School of Theology at Cambridge, Mass., the other afternoon his idea of the new religion—that of the twentieth century—a religion not based upon authority or dealing in promises of future compensations, a religion among whose ministers would be the skillful surgeon, whose aim would be prevention, not consolation.

"You have been studying this year," said Dr. Eliot, "about changed views of religion and increased knowledge, new ideas of God as seen along many lines. You have learned that special progress has been modified and that energy is being conserved. From these and other indications you must believe that religion is not fixed, but fluent, and that it changes from century to century. Such, indeed, has been the case.

"The progress in the nineteenth century far outstripped that of similar periods, and it is fair to assume that the progress of the twentieth century will bring about what I call the new religion. First, I shall tell you what this new religion will not be, and, second, what it will be.

Its Faith Not to Be Racial or Tribal.

"The new religion will not be based upon authority, either spiritual or temporal. The present generation is ready to be led, but not driven. As a rule, the older Christian churches have relied on authority. But there is now a tendency toward liberty and progress, and among educated men this feeling is irresistible. In the new religion there will be no personification of natural objects. There will be no deification of remarkable human beings, and the faith will not be racial or tribal.

"The new religion will not afford safety primarily to the individual; it will think first of the common good and will not teach that character can be changed quickly.

"The new religion will not think of God as a large and glorified man or as a king or a patriarch. It will not deal chiefly with sorrow and death, but with joy and life. It will believe in no malignant powers, and it will attack quickly all forms of evil.

"A new thought of God will be its characteristic. The twentieth century religion accepts literally St. Paul's statement, 'In him we live and move and have our being.' This new religion will be thoroughly monotheistic. God will be so imminent that no intermediary will be needed. For every man God will be a multiplication of infinities. A humane and worthy idea of God then will be the central thought of the new religion.

"This religion rejects the idea that man is alien or a fallen being who is hopelessly wicked. It finds such beliefs inconsistent with a worthy idea of God. Man has always attributed to man a spirit associated with but independent of the body. This spirit is shown in a man's habits, in his appearance and actions—in short, it is his personality; it is the most effective part of every human being. In the crisis of a battle it is a superior soul that rallies the troops, and it appeals to souls, not to bodies.

Will Reduce Need of Consolation.

"The new religion will admit no sacraments, except natural, hallowed customs, and it will deal with natural interpretations of such rites. Its priests will strive to improve social and industrial conditions. It will not attempt to reconcile people to present ills by the promise of future compensation. I believe the advent of just freedom for mankind has been delayed for centuries by such promises. Prevention will be the watchword of the new religion, and a skillful surgeon will be one of its ministers. It cannot supply consolation as offered by old religions, but it will reduce the need of consolation.

Limitless Field of Action.

"The new religion will laud God's love and will not teach condemnation for the mass of mankind. The true end of all religions and philosophy is to teach man to serve his fellow man, and this religion will do this increasingly. It will not be bound by dogma or creed. Its workings will be simple, but its field of action limitless. Its discipline will be the training in the development of co-operative good will. "Again and again different bodies of people, such as spiritualists and Christian Scientists, have set up new cults. But the mass of people stay by the church. Since there will be undoubtedly more freedom in this century it may be argued that it will be difficult to unite various religions under this new head, but such unity, I believe, can be accomplished on this basis—the love of God and service to one's fellow man. There are already many signs of extensive co-operation—democracy, individualism, idealism, a tendency to welcome the new, and preventive medicine. Finally, I believe, the new religion will make Christ's revelation seem more wonderful than ever to us."

LOCAL OPTION AN ISSUE

Virginia Republicans Nominate and Adopt Platform.

Newport News, Va., July 30.—Placing themselves squarely on record as favoring local option, with the counties and the cities as the unit instead of magisterial districts, as under the present law, the Virginia Republicans accepted the liquor situation as an issue in the gubernatorial campaign. After adopting a platform, of which this plank was the principal feature, and nominating a state ticket headed by William P. Kent of Wytheville, present American consul general to Guatemala, the convention adjourned.

NEW BARN FOR COUNTY FARM

I. U. White is Drawing Plans for the Construction of a New Building

TO REPLACE BURNED STRUCTURE

Plans to be Laid Before the County Commissioners at Meeting Next Tuesday

I. U. White, of White Brothers, contractors and builders, is engaged in the work of drafting plans for the new barn which is to be built by Crow Wing county on the poor farm to take the place of the one destroyed by fire last week. The new barn will be the same size as the old one, the foundation and basement of the barn having been little injured by the fire which destroyed the superstructure. The main part will be 40 x60 with an "L" 28x33. Both portions will be two stories. The roof of the new barn will be what is known as a "gambrel" roof, thus making room for about a third more hay. The building will house about 60 head of stock, a large amount of farm machinery and grain and about 100 tons of hay. There is a stone basement under the entire barn, that under the "L" being a root cellar.

In speaking of the poor farm today Mr. White remarked that he was one of a crew which was shingling the original house on the farm the day of the St. Cloud and Sauk Rapids cyclone and that many pieces of debris from the storm fell on and around the roof where they were at work.

The plans for the barn must be completed for the meeting of the county commissioners on Tuesday next and it is expected that on that day they will order the advertisement of bids for the construction of the same.

The Critic.

"So you enjoyed my Hamlet?" said Stormington Barnes.

"Yes," answered the woman who tries to be complimentary.

"I am glad of that. So many people nowadays do not enjoy Shakespeare."

"I know that. But the way you play it it doesn't seem the least bit like Shakespeare."—Washington Star.

She Consulted a Clock.

Girls are not noted for being strong on figures, and one of them was relating recently the mental maze into which she was introduced as the result of asking a perfectly innocent question. She was going downtown on the car one afternoon and queried the conductor as to the time. He withdrew his alarm clock of a watch from a capacious pocket, observed the dial with the care used by a mariner in taking an observation with the sextant and then remarked in a portentous tone, "It lacks three seconds of being 2:48." The poor girl was so overwhelmed with the mass of material for a short exercise in oral arithmetic that she waited until she got downtown before trying to find out really what time it was, and then she consulted a big clock, where she had plenty of time to see just where each hand was.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

WILL HAVE SWEDISH VILLAGE

Typical Settlement of Swedish Peasants to be an Attraction at State Fair

There will be a Swedish village as well as an Indian village and an Igorrote village at the Minnesota State Fair this year and the state fair grounds give promise of becoming in large part a "street of nations" from Sept. 6 to 11.

In its search for innovations for the fiftieth annual Minnesota state fair, the board of managers has settled upon a Swedish village as the most novel and most attractive feature available and has entered into contracts with representatives of various Swedish societies in the State by which a Swedish village somewhat suggestive of the Chicago world's fair, will be installed on machinery hill.

Everything in the way of Scandinavian attractions and amusements will be offered State fair visitors. There will be folk dancers, singers, dramatic performances by artists directly from the other side, Swedish college bands, Swedish cafes, the famous John Ericson exhibit, popular Swedish dialect comedians, exhibits by Swedish importers, a grand general portrayal of peasant life in Sweden with special scenery and accessories painted by Axel Lindahl, and Swedish music.

Many of the Scandinavian singing societies of the State will assist and there will be many famous lecturers appearing in connection with an elaborate moving picture series descriptive of scenes in and about the Scandinavian peninsula. There will also be many Scandinavian speakers of note, among which the committee in charge hopes to secure Hon. Knute Nelson, Gov. Johnson, Ex-Gov. Lind and others.

A special feature of the Swedish village will be a registration system by which all visitors will be permitted and requested to register their present address and also the place of their nativity, or the province from which their immediate family came. Use of this system by the thousands of visitors will enable many to relocate friends whose addresses have long been lost and will undoubtedly result in many happy reunions.

CUBE SHAPED CANTALOUPE.

Washington Grower Uses Wooden Troughs to Raise Novel Fruit.

C. E. Parrish of North Yakima, Wash., marketed cantaloupes at Seattle, Wash., a few days ago that are perfect cubes. They sold for extremely fancy prices.

Parrish has been doing novel things with fruit and vegetables for several years, but says that his idea of growing cantaloupes in the shape of cubes is the most practical of anything he has undertaken. Many people do not like the shape of the cantaloupes because the round form makes it impossible to be served artistically.

Parrish has troughs made from heavy lumber, and these are partitioned to make an interior size of four inches each way. As soon as new cantaloupes are seen to form on the vines each fruit is placed in one of the partitions in a trough.

The fruit continues to grow and gradually assume the shape of the cubical house in which it lives. To prevent the top from becoming rounded Parrish places a heavy cover on the box trough in time to avoid the trouble.

Raids of the Tuareks.

It is their curious social life which forces the Tuareks, living in the Sahara back of Tripoli, to raid caravans. The mother has all the rights over the children, and all the property is in the hands of the women. To marry a wife a Tuarek must pay a large sum to the bride and her mother, and the only way to get the necessary wealth is a successful raid, for the male Tuarek's ordinary occupation—camel farming and carrying loads for traders—gets him hardly enough profit to live by.

WOMEN ON POLICE FORCE.

Dr. Anna Howard Shaw Says Criminals Need "Mothering."

That Minneapolis needs a hundred women policemen is the opinion of Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the National Woman's Suffrage association, who recently addressed the students of the University of Minnesota.

She said that should the demands of suffragists be granted it would not be too much to expect that women should do their share in the police and fire departments.

"One hundred women specialists put on the police force of any city would make for improved civic conditions," she said. "The criminal needs 'mothering.' If women were on the police force their watchfulness, care and attention to persons who need their wholesome influence, backed up by authority, would prove a most useful and uplifting measure."

Doubt In the Matter.

A story is told in an English village of a man who visited the schoolroom when his nephew was hard at work at his lessons.

"Well, Jack," said the uncle, "good boy this morning, I hope."

Paid His Debt.

When Joe Chamberlain entered the house of commons he was anxious to try his oratorical powers. A certain leading politician who was piloting a bill through the house was approached by one of Mr. Chamberlain's friends, who said:

"Chamberlain would like to speak on the bill. Can you give him a chance?"

"Well, you know, I think it would not do. He's a new member, and nobody knows what the dickens he might say."

Time went on. Chamberlain gained ground—became a power in parliament. The leading politician, on the contrary, had made a series of blunders which had imperiled his position. An election was imminent. Forgetting his previous record, he thought that if he could get Mr. Chamberlain to speak for him he would strengthen his position. He therefore applied to the right honorable gentleman. The latter calmly surveyed him through his eyeglass and said:

"Well, you know, I think it would not do. I am a new member, and nobody knows what the dickens I might say."

DREW FAIR CROWDS

Carnival Attracted Many People to the Streets and Various Shows Last Evening

The crowd at the carnival last night was about the same size as the night before, though at no time this year have the crowds approached the magnitude of previous years. This is doubtless in part because there are many of the same attractions as then and in part because the shows are fewer in number. Nevertheless the streets were fairly well crowded last night and the attractions were well attended.

The Little Russian Prince continued to be one of the best drawing attractions and he kept the crowds amused by his shrewd sallies.

The animal show is good and the trained lion act far surpasses anything ever seen in Brainerd. The lions not only do their stunts but seem to enjoy it. Max, the clown, seems to have a real affection for the trainer who certainly shows confidence not only in himself but in the lions.

Santiago, with its fine band and orchestra and its scenic reproductions of Spanish War scenes continues to draw good crowds. It is disadvantageously placed, being so near the animal show that the music at the two places interferes, but it nevertheless enjoys a good patronage.

Many people with chronic throat and lung trouble have found comfort and relief in Foley's Honey and Tar as it cures stubborn coughs after other treatment has failed. L. M. Ruggles, Reasnor, Iowa, writes: "The doctors said I had consumption, and I got no better until I took Foley's Honey and Tar. It stopped the hemorrhages and pain in my lungs and they are now as sound as a bullet." H. P. Dunn. mwf

WOMEN PEACEMAKERS.

Movement in England to Stop Anglo-German Bickerings.

A woman's Anglo-German entente committee, with the object of striving to put an end to the incessant bickerings between the two nations, was recently organized at the residence in London of David Lloyd-George, chancellor of the exchequer. The meeting was addressed by a number of members of parliament as well as by several influential women, and a letter was read from Count Paul Wolff-Meternich, the German ambassador to Great Britain, expressing keen interest in the movement and wishing it every success.

Mr. Lloyd-George attributed what he called the "snarling and barking" now going on in England and Germany to a misunderstanding. "Some of you remember," he said, "the prejudices, jealousies and animosities that formerly dictated our relations with America, while now not the wildest person or yellowest of yellow journals on either side of the Atlantic ever suggests that war is within the realms of possibility. Then followed the constant quarrels with France, but now the warmest friendship prevails. Why should not Germany be included in that feeling? There is absolutely no reason for a quarrel with Germany."

Among the members of the committee are Mrs. Asquith, wife of the premier; Mrs. Lloyd-George, Mrs. Winston Spencer Churchill, wife of the president of the board of trade, and Lady Brassey.

LIGHTS ON BABY CARTS.

Los Angeles Council Includes All Vehicles in New Speed Ordinance.

Baby carriages and wheelbarrows are included in an amended speed ordinance passed by the Los Angeles (Cal.) city council the other afternoon, which provides that all vehicles of every sort shall display red lights at the rear end and white lights in front. Mr. Reeves, the city prosecutor, pointed out immediately the ridiculous feature of the measure, but the ordinance was not changed. The object of the ordinance is to extend the state automobile law to include heavy wagons in the city limits.

Mr. Reeves said after the ordinance was passed: "Fathers and mothers need not worry over the requirements of the new law. We shall not prosecute them if they do not put lights on their baby carriages. The danger of the law is that some officious policeman will make trouble for inoffensive persons who do not obey the new ordinance."

Sager was traded by South Bend, Ind., to Evansville in 1906 and has never missed a game since becoming a member of the nine. During the last four seasons he has never spoken harshly to an umpire, has never suffered a bruise or an injury and has never known a sick day.

The Making of the Payne Tariff Bill

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

It takes a long time to get a tariff law on the statute books of the United States, and then it is seldom the kind of tariff law that anybody hoped it would be. It has so many framers that it is framed out of all recognition. The present bill was framed by Payne, framed by Aldrich, framed by the conference committee, framed by Taft and generally framed so early and so often that many people think it should be hung as a work of art.

The Payne bill took longer to get into condition than the Dingley law, which it supplants. The extra session having each measure in charge met on March 15, but the Dingley act had received the president's signature on July 24. That was twelve years ago, since which time we have lived under the provisions of that act. A like comparison with the rate of progress on the Wilson bill of four years earlier is impossible, for the reason that it never was signed. Cleveland allowed it to become a law without honoring it with his microscopic chirography. The only other tariff bill to become a law during the last quarter of a century was the McKinley bill, adopted in 1890, a piece of legislation that swept the Republican party out of power at the next election and kept it out for the most part until the Democrats committed an equal act of political harakiri by adopting the Wilson bill in 1893. There is a political aphorism to the effect that the party passing a new tariff bill also passes itself out of power at the next election, a rule that has proved true four out of five times in the last thirty years, the only exception having been in 1897, when the Spanish-American war intervened and set aside minor political causes.

First Revision Sentiment.

The Payne bill really had its inception back in the days when the people regardless of party and in many states were agitating for tariff revision. Some of these cries for lower duties came from Massachusetts, some from Wisconsin, where Senator La Follette's voice was leading the chorus; some from Iowa, where Senator Cummins sang, whistled and otherwise expounded "the Iowa idea," and some from other corners of the nation, where they disturbed the meditations of the "stand patters." It is even said that more than a year prior to the convention which was to name him for the of the short session of the last Roosevelt congress. Throughout the summer vacation between the two sessions the old ways and means committee of the house had its tariff hearings, the most sensational witness being Andrew Carnegie, who startled the country by coming out as an ardent revisionist. It was almost as though John D. Rockefeller had appeared in the role of a muck raker and trust buster.

By the time the short session had met these hearings had progressed to a point when actual constructive work in framing the new schedules could be started, and as a consequence the country was treated to the spectacle of the ways and means committee of an outgoing congress framing a tariff bill for the consideration of an extra session of an incoming congress that had not been called and that could not be called until the old congress had gone out of existence. This irregularity was more apparent than real, however, for the reason that everybody knew an extra session would be called, and everybody was just as certain that the old ways and means committee would in the main constitute the new ways and means committee. Thus it was that when the extra session did meet it found before it a completed tariff bill, ready to be introduced, and one that had been so maturely considered that it was debated, amended and rushed through to passage in the house in less than a month after the body convened.

The first fight of significance in the extra session was that over the reelection of Speaker Cannon and the adoption of the former house rules. Owing to a small but vigorous body of insurgent Republicans the result seemed for a time in doubt, but the "house machine" won enough Democratic support to insure Mr. Cannon's continu-

Perhaps the two greatest orators of the intrepid band were Dooliver of Iowa and Beveridge of Indiana. Others prominent in their ranks were Brown and Burkett of Nebraska, two young Lochinvars out of the west, who for comparatively new members made their presence felt and stirred up the high priests of the stand patters on divers and sundry forensic fields. Then there were Bristow of Kansas, a Roosevelt follower of the old days; Borah of Idaho, Nelson and Clapp of Minnesota and occasionally Burton of Ohio, Crawford of South Dakota and one or two others.

One peculiarity of the struggle was that it practically obliterated party lines as such. The Democrats were divided, the bulk of them usually opposing Aldrich, it is true, but enough of them coming to his support on crucial votes to assure him a majority. For the first time in the history of modern politics the vital part of the opposition had shifted from the minority party to a revolting section of the majority party. It is a most interesting condition and one that may pre-empt much for the future. It is all the more pregnant of meaning for the reason that public opinion seems to be behind the progressive Republicans.

Aldrich in the Saddle.

The Payne bill had not been long before the senate until all the downward revision features had practically been eliminated and the measure became actually one of revision upward. Thus it was when it went to the conference committees, where the final struggle between the two houses took place and the president at last injected himself into the fight. The peculiar part of the situation in the conference committees, where the essential features of all tariff bills really are determined, was that Mr. Payne seemed to have been set aside and Senator Aldrich controlled the day. This led to one stormy session, in which Payne left the meeting, but afterward a truce was patched up and the struggle was carried on in more diplomatic fashion, for it speedily became apparent that the Payne bill, like all the tariff acts that had gone before, would be a compromise.

A WOMAN TO CONGRESS.

Colorado Women Have a Candidate and Propose a Vigorous Campaign.

Colorado women are to make a determined effort to send one of their sex to congress two years hence. Such was the announcement made to the visiting delegates from the International Council of Women at Denver by one who spoke for the women's associations in the state.

It was Lady McMillan, who talked of suffrage to the house of lords for four hours and then stopped only because they ordered her to desist, who brought out the statement. She put the question point blank to the Denver women who were entertaining her.

All are agreed that Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker is to be the candidate and that every feminine resource will figure in the contest and that a move toward preliminary education of the voters on this line must be made soon.

Mrs. Decker herself says she has never considered the matter seriously owing to her belief that there is a federal statute or constitutional provision that women cannot be members of either house of congress. She believes, however, that they should be entitled to seats in the nation's legislature and is confident that their presence there would be beneficial to the people. One of her chief hobbies is a drastic anti child labor law.

California Women in Politics.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gerberding, president of the Woman's League of Justice in San Francisco, is heading a movement for the active participation of women in the fall political campaign in California. The League of Justice, which has a membership of 2,000, will work in conjunction with other organizations of women in San Francisco, and it is intended to bring the women throughout the state into concerted action. Mrs. Gerberding says it is time women took part in politics in California. She believes they will get rid of much of the corruption which has smirched the reputation of many of the state's leading cities within recent years.

FOOD SUPPLY RUNNING LOW

Hungry and Maddened Strikers Attack Nonunion Men.

Pittsburg, July 29.—Three thousand strikers, maddened by seeing their food supply running low and with no immediate prospect of a settlement of the strike, surged in pursuit of workmen from the Pressed Steel car plant and before state troops arrived on the scene three persons were injured. A score of workmen from the plant fled into McKees Rocks with the mob in pursuit, and girls who had just left the company offices ran about screaming, thinking the strikers intended to attack them.

In a few minutes after the outbreak started all was quiet again around the plant, but the strikers were feverishly excited and sheriffs and state constabulary redoubled their vigilance.

THINKS FIGHT IMPROBABLE

Johnson Believes Jeffries Will Impose Impossible Conditions.

Detroit, July 30.—In an interview here Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight pugilist, said that he considered a fight with Jeffries an improbability, as he anticipated that Jeffries would exact conditions which he would find it impossible to accept.

He stated that he would not stand for any guarantee, but would demand straight winner and loser division of the money.

The big negro said that the coming fight with Ketchel did not worry him, as he felt confident that he would have no trouble in defeating the mid-dleweight fighter.

ALLEGED DEFAULTER DEAD

Jackson, Minn., July 30.—Dr. Frank R. Hansen, defaulting school secretary of Lakefield, died in his cell in the Jackson county jail. His death is attributed to the fact that he was deprived of morphine. Dr. Hansen formerly was a prosperous physician and a prominent Mason.

The shortage in his accounts was discovered three months ago. It amounted to $8,000. After being arrested by Sheriff Ter Haar he escaped from that officer at Kansas City by a simple ruse, but later was recaptured and brought here to be tried.

SPANISH ARMS SUFFER DEFEAT

Three Thousand Are Killed or Wounded Near Melilla.

FIGHTING AT WALLS OF CITY

Moorish Forces Receive Reinforcements and It Is Believed the Spanish Troops Are in Dire Straits—Insurrectionary Outbreaks Occur at Many Points in Spain—Rumored That Premier Maura Will Resign.

Madrid, July 30.—Spain is rent by two fears—the fate of the army in Morocco and the situation in the Mediterranean provinces in Catalonia. At the outskirts of Melilla the Spanish arms have suffered a serious check. Three thousand soldiers have either been slain or wounded and the Moorish hordes are fighting at the very walls of the city itself.

News from Barcelona, the center of the revolutionary outbreaks, is exceedingly meager and unsatisfactory. From Lisbon comes the report that the revolutionists are using bombs and that 100 persons were killed and 200 wounded during the earlier stages of the conflicts.

Premier Maura's announcement that the situation in Barcelona showed a little improvement and word from Melilla that the Moors were retreating from Mount Guruga only slightly appeased the general uneasiness. The Moorish forces, however, have been strengthened by the arrival of 5,000 additional tribesmen and the official judgment that 75,000 Spanish troops are needed to Overcome the Moors

would indicate that the Melilla army of Spain is in sore straits.

A Moorish army is marching on Alhucemas and a warship has been hurriedly dispatched from Melilla to aid the garrison there.

Insurrectionary outbreaks are reported from many points in Spain. At Granollers two convents have been burned, while at Cassadell the civil guard was disarmed and imprisoned in the barracks. The revolutionists are active at Llanas and Figueras, where the railroads have been dynamited. Financial institutions are sending their funds across the frontier.

The report that a provisional government has been established at Barcelona and that the governor has been assassinated is unconfirmed, but rumors are persistent that Premier Maura will resign and that a military dictatorship will be set up in Madrid.

CAVALRY DRIVES REBELS INTO SQUARE

Spanish Artillery Then Inflicts Terrible Execution.

Madrid, July 30.—It is officially announced that the cavalry engaged at Barcelona succeeded in driving into St. Martin square the principal bands of revolutionists, against whom the artillery opened fire, causing great loss. The survivors surrendered.

The official statement further says that it now remains only to master small groups of revolutionists in the villages in the vicinity of Barcelona.

SPANISH THRONE TOTTERING

People Infuriated at Heavy Losses in Morocco.

Paris, July 30.—Conditions in Spain are reported so grave that it is rumored a provisional government has been proclaimed at Barcelona and that the revolution has spread to the surrounding provinces.

The populace has become infuriated by the news that the Spanish lost 3,000 in a great battle with the Moors and it is admitted that the situation is now such as to threaten the reigning dynasty.

Rioting is so extensive and desperate as to suggest the days of the Paris commune.

The garrisons of the principal towns in Spain are under arms and the mobilization of the entire Spanish army is being carried out.

France Will Send Cruiser.

Paris, July 30.—The French government has decided to dispatch a cruiser and a chartered French line steamer to Melilla to take off the French residents in case of danger.

Newsboy Run Down by Auto.

St. Paul, July 30.—While responding to the beckon of a prospective customer across the street Myer Chelneck, a seven-year-old newsboy, was run down and probably fatally injured by an automobile of which Charles Hedwall of Minneapolis was the driver. The boy's collarbone was broken and it is thought that he has a fracture of the skull, as the rear wheel of the vehicle passed over his head.

KILLS BABY AND HIMSELF

Missourian Also Dangerously Wounds His Wife.

Hannibal, Mo., July 30.—A triple tragedy occurred here when Charles Beasley shot and killed his baby, dangerously wounded his wife and then committed suicide. The first shot was directed against the baby. Mrs. Beasley fled, but her husband caught her and forced her to return to the house. She slipped away a second time and he fired at her as she ran. Then he stretched himself on the floor beside the dead child and turned the revolver on himself.

Mrs. Beasley's chances for recovery are slight, according to physicians. The shooting was preceded by a violent quarrel between the husband and wife.

His Boycott.

"These Turks are barbarous people," remarked the housewife as she got out a rhubarb pie.

"Yes, mum," responded Sandy Pikes, with a low bow. "To show my antipathy for dem I have formed a boycott."

"A boycott, my poor man?"

"Yes, mum. I have promised myself never to use a Turkish towel or take a Turkish bath."—Chicago News.

PRESIDENT TAFT AND THE COMPLETION OF THE TARIFF BILL.

presidency William Howard Taft in a speech in Maine added a word—two or three of them, in fact—in behalf of a reduction of schedules. Somewhat later the cry came so insistent that President Roosevelt felt it incumbent on him to notice it, and shortly afterward one of his visitors at Oyster Bay gave out an inspired statement to the effect that nothing would be done about the tariff until after the inauguration of the next president. In keeping with this program, the Republican national convention adopted a plank promising an extra session of congress to deal with the tariff, to be called as soon as the new president took his seat. This step was made not only because of public opinion for revision, but for the further reason that the government was short of revenue. A deficit in the treasury is a most moving advocate.

It was not only tariff revision, but tariff revision downward! This was the slogan of both parties in the ensuing campaign. Both candidates sounded it persistently, the only difference being the lengths to which they would go and the principle on which they would operate. Mr. Taft would only say that, on the whole, there should be reduction, the governing principle being that of protection, duties being laid to cover the difference in cost between domestic and foreign production plus a reasonable profit. This became the rallying cry of the Republican campaign and has remained the rallying cry of those demanding lower duties in the fight on the Payne bill.

The Tariff Hearings.

The actual framing of the new tariff measure began before the assembling ance, which was never seriously in jeopardy, and to readopt the house rules with only a few unimportant modifications.

In the beginning Representative Sereno E. Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee and Republican floor leader, was the central figure. Mr. Payne, who had been prominent in framing both the McKinley and the Dingley bills, had been the leader in framing the new bill which was to take his name. The most significant fact of his leadership appeared when it was seen that the bill he reported was in substantial agreement with the president's idea of a revision downward, which, as subsequent events proved, made Mr. Payne in effect the foremost advocate of the revision downward sentiment.

The Senate Insurgents.

It was after the bill went to the senate that the other side had its inning. In that body, under the skillful leadership of Senator Aldrich, rates which had been reduced in the house bill were put back to the old Dingley basis and in many cases even higher. The fight in the senate produced a new force in American politics, a body of insurgent Republicans which, while never large, was most conspicuous for ability and pugnacity. The number of these insurgents, or progressives, as they prefer to be called, fluctuated in successive votes, but was never much above a dozen, and came to be referred to in time as the "fighting ten." At the head were Senator La Follette of Wisconsin and Senator Cummins of Iowa, two men who had been singing the song of revision and of other advanced policies for years.
